

Roy Lichtenstein Weekend Workshop Series

In joyful response to the collection of Roy Lichtenstein prints on show 22.8.2026 – 14.3.2027 at Kunstmuseum Basel, druckwerk Basel presents a series of 1 and 2-day experimental printmaking workshops.

Pop motifs & printmaking techniques

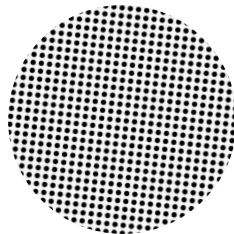

In the spirit of the collaboration between Graphicstudio and Roy Lichtenstein in the production of the Brushstroke Figures series, this workshop is an invitation to explore various printmaking processes.

By rendering pop motifs - the dots, diagonals and brushstrokes that can be seen in the Graphicstudio prints - with different printmaking techniques, participants can gain an understanding of the techniques' differences, in turn, discovering their potential.

Let's Ben Day!

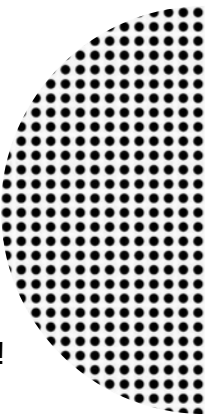

Patented in the 1880s, Ben Day 'mechanical tints' were tools for illustrators to fast-track the execution of lining, shading, hatching and most famously, stippling a.k.a. dots. Stylised and magnified these marks became key components of Roy Lichtenstein's pop vocabulary.

Using the collagraph method & found materials participants will build an own library of shading mediums. They will investigate the creation of enhanced patterns by overprinting the plates and through colour juxtaposition. Then they will explore ways to use these findings to create images.
